

On one of our house-to-house visits in Bapsfontein squatter camp, we found two puppies locked up in a cage, with nothing but an empty bowl. There was no food, water or blanket for them. We gave them food and water and a warm blanket.

We told the owner that it is cruel and against the law to keep dogs in a cage, and explained what he needs to do to change the situation. We went back to his house the next day; just to find the puppies still in the cage.

We confiscated the puppies and we were lucky enough to find a good home for them together!

Life in a cage

Safe (and free!) at their new home
